University of Melbourne Focus on Engineering

Wednesday 11th May 2022, 6:00 pm - 8:00 pm
University of Melbourne, Parkville Campus

At Melbourne, you can focus on engineering from your first day with one of 12 engineering majors in either the Bachelor of Biomedicine, Design or Science. Or you can combine business skills like management, finance, or accounting with technical knowledge in engineering to lead into an engineering management or consultancy career by first starting with the Bachelor of Commerce.

Book your place now to learn more about the range of engineering majors and what study pathway is right for you. Current students will answer your questions and share their experiences studying engineering through the Melbourne curriculum as well as the practical skills they've developed and how their internships and placements have benefited them.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Australia's First Degree-Apprenticeship Program

BAE Systems Australia and the employer association Ai Group will launch the nation's first-degree apprenticeship program in 2023.

The program will be delivered by Victoria University, and it aims to increase skilled participation in major defence projects. The program has already received the endorsement of major employers in the sector. The program will include on-the-job training combined with academic studies focused on a degree in Systems Engineering. Details of the course are currently being finalised, and applications will open later in the year for between 20-40 students for 2023.
